Vol. XLII

Administration 5-10

Classes 11-16

Organizations 17-36

The year book staff presents to the members of Estherville High School this 1964-65 HoLoCo. On its pages the skeleton of school life is portrayed.

The various areas of academic study are represented here. Throughout the three years of high school, learning is a student's employment, for he puts in a minimum of thirty-five hours a week plus a considerable amount of overtime.

Numerous organizations help to broaden the education begun with books in the classroom. Music, athletics, and speech activities, and many organizations representing the students varied interests develop leadership, responsibility, and appreciation; these give every student an opportunity to develop his personality and character to the fullest.

Yearly traditions such as homecoming events, graduation, class plays, and prom give dignity, stability and depth.

This book can, however, be no more than a skeleton; memories make its pages complete. We hope that the increased number of candid pictures and the reference to national and international events will refresh these memories and more vividly capture the rhythm of school life.

HE IS NOT DEAD

Peace, peace! he is not dead, he doth not sleep--
He hath awakened from the dream of life--
"Tis we who, lost in stormy visions, keep
With phantoms an unprofitable strife . . .

He has outsoared the shadow of our night;
Envy and calumny, and hate and pain,
And that unrest which men miscall delight,
Can touch him not, and torture not again . . .

The One remains, the many change and pass;
Heaven's light forever shines, Earth's shadows fly;
Life, like a dome of many-colored glass,
Stains the white radiance of Eternity.

FACULTY

W. C. Hilburn
Superintendent

Behind the scenes of every well-run school, there are a host of individuals who diligently work to insure the intellectual development of our future leaders.

The school board of the school system is elected by the voters in the district. Their responsibility is to hire administrators, teachers, and other necessary personnel.

The superintendent is the executive official of the school board. It is his responsibility to see that policies adopted by the board are put into operation, and to keep the board informed of how the school budget is spent.

It is the duty of each principal to plan curricula, to assign teachers, to prepare schedules, to select textbooks, and to be responsible for the supervision of curricular and extra curricular activities.

Each teacher is to provide the best possible instruction of which he is capable.

Helping Hand to All

The task of being high school secretary is capably filled by Mrs. Marvel Anderson. Marvel's numerous and varied activities include: writing make-up slips for students who have been absent; answering the day's many telephone calls; taking attendance from each class during every period; helping arrange and change schedules; typing; duplicating announcements and tests; reading announcements over the intercom twice a day; making change; overseeing all office activities; and last, but certainly not least, being disciplinarian when students are tardy, leave the school or class without permission, or don't pay dues.

Although often unappreciated, the job of our secretary is necessary to keep the school system running smoothly and orderly.

In education the tangibles are taught and the intangibles are caught! Your mastery of the multiplication tables, learning how to interpret the printed word, and developing the skill to write are examples of the tangible. The intangibles are those things that one catches from association with teachers and classmates; from experiences in the classroom; at school parties, contests and games. It is the insights that come from just visiting with friends.

Never be afraid. Never be afraid of anything. The world has two great powers for us to face. One is fear, and it is strong indeed; it wrecks millions of men. But the other is stronger, and it saves millions, exalts them, leads them forth triumphant. It is called faith.

Lethargy is deadly. Enthusiasm is contagious. Find something in which you have faith and about which you can be enthusiastic. Fear will vanish and life will be exciting. These are the intangibles that make the tangibles become worthwhile.

CLASSES

Skills Are Developed in Vocational Classes

Vocational courses are designed for students who wish to develop special skills which may be used in employment after graduation from high school, or which may be of assistance to them in their studies at a trade school. E.H.S. offers a wide variety of such courses.

Home economic students study units in food and nutrition, home furnishings and management, and clothing.

Law, math, and secretarial skills are all a part of business and secretarial courses. Opportunities to serve as teacher assistants offers practical experience.

Vocational agriculture and industrial art courses offer an opportunity for study and experience in the fields of electricity, welding, and farm work and management.

Some students, after completing high school wish to continue their studies, but because practical experience is offered with many courses, a large number of students are ready for employment upon graduation.

The sparks fly as David Lair welds in Voc. Ag. class.

An exciting challenge for boys--electricity.

Mr. Hase gives hints in business arithmetic.

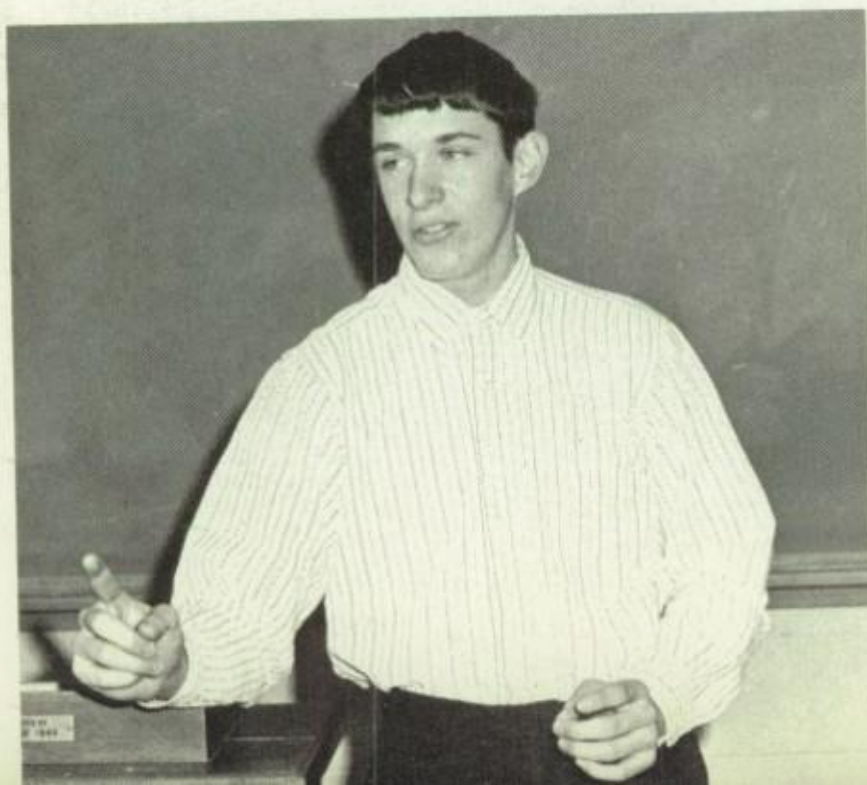

Mirrors reflect activity in home economics class. Lois Olson helps Nancy Cook with the finishing touches on her sewing project.

Peeking through acid bottles, the camera sees fascinated chemistry students.

Mike McCleary makes his point in speech class.

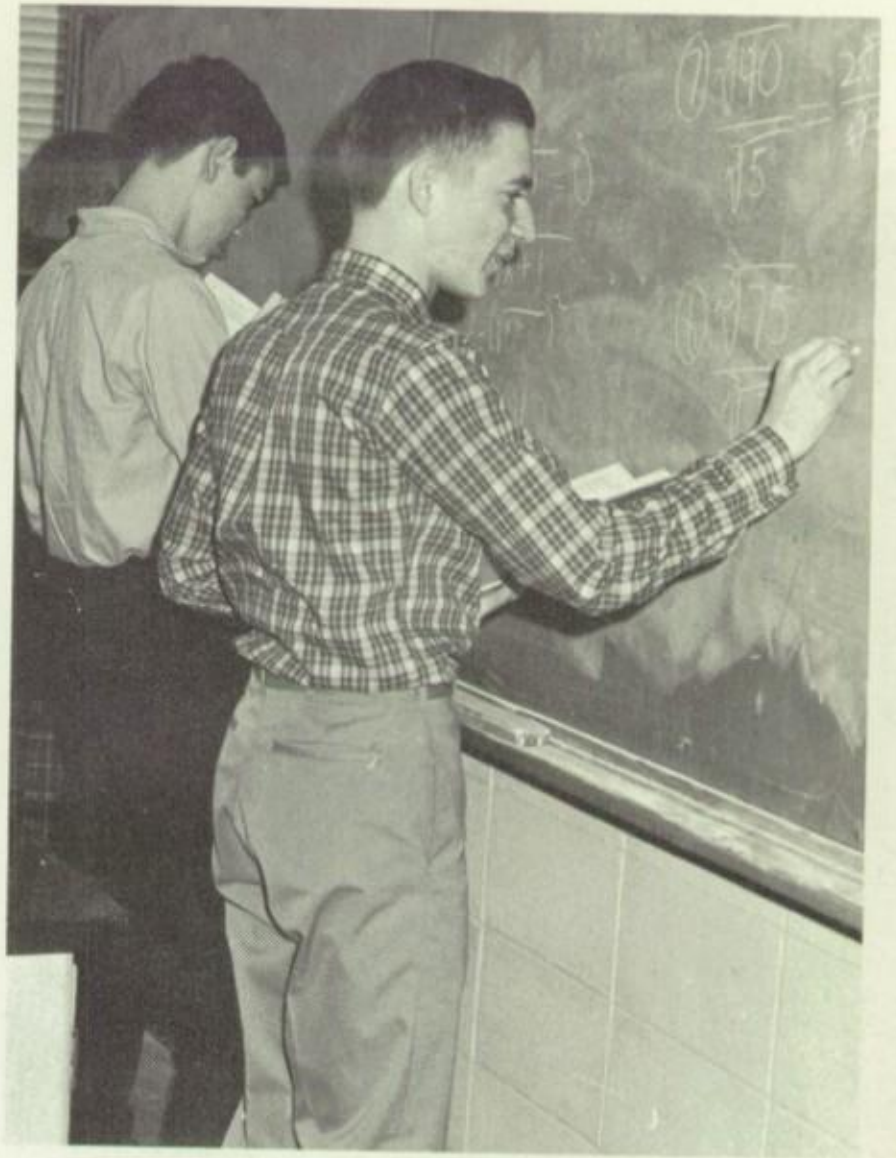

As the student prepares himself for life after graduation, he must equip his mind with that which will be the most beneficial in his particular way of life. Regardless of curriculum, however, there are many fundamental academic courses which all need in preparation to meet life and what it will bring. One of the basic necessities of an education is to learn to speak. After all, the right to speak is an inalienable right, and because of this we should learn to utilize this freedom to the utmost. A background of world affairs found in history and government will be a benefit to anyone in the years to come. The science and math courses serve as a base for the college-bound student. We find that the academic curriculum is filled with challenging courses which are beneficial to all.

Art students work diligently on print making.

Strike!!

Many varying programs and activities help make Estherville High School a rewarding experience.

Sketching, painting, ceramics, water color, and print-making enrich the minds of art students.

Occasional gym classes at the nearby Imperial Lanes develop bowling skills and produce abundant enthusiasm.

Still more unique, is our Co-op Program. In this type of education, the local businesses and the school work simultaneously helping students obtain specific job objectives.

Students receive valuable training at the hospital through the Co-op program.

Outstanding Leadership Is Character

Doug Bezdicek, president; Tom Moklestad, vice-president; Nancy Smith, secretary.

The Estherville High School student government consisted of eighteen council members. Meeting on Wednesday of each week, they chose the Girl-of-the-Month for the local Wa-tan-ye organization and discussed suggestions submitted by the students in the suggestion box. Recommendations made by the 1964-1965 council altered the selection of Homecoming queen and provided for the recognition of all seniors with a grade point of 3.5 or better at graduation but retained the valedictorian and salutatorian awards. Student council members also held the Lakes Conference Student Council meeting here November 12 and attended the district council meeting in Spencer April 12.

On March 12, five percent of the junior class and ten percent of the senior class, chosen because of their excellent scholarship, leadership, character, and service, were inducted into the National Honor Society. As these newly elected members filed down the aisles of Roosevelt Auditorium, their smiles, seen through lighted candles and the tears which filled their eyes, expressed the awe that overwhelmed them. Their days of diligent study, however, must not halt at the end of the ceremony. The greatest obligation is yet to be accomplished. Life supplies the time and space, but is up to these people to fill it to the best of their abilities.

Saturday's ESTHERVILLE DAILY is an important one for the students of EHS for on the back page is the "Pepper," the school's weekly paper. It is edited by students enrolled in the journalism class and all others interested in journalism. Included each week are news articles concerning students, teachers, and school activities. "Tidbits," a regular column in this year's paper, included amusing bits of conversation and events collected by the staff. On the more serious line, a series of articles was used to explain the new Co-op program. The "Pepper" offers practical experience to those interested in journalism and enjoyment to all of the high school students and the community.

A Summary of the year's activities is found in the yearbook. The HOLOCO staff works throughout the year to compile a book that represents each phase of school life. What is being done in the classrooms, as well as in extra curricular activities, has its place on the pages of this book. By means of the large individual pictures, the seniors receive special notice, for the book is a memento of their final high school year. Each year the book is dedicated to someone who is especially deserving of recognition for his contributions to the school and who best characterizes the ideals set forth by the book's title, honor, loyalty, and courtesy.

Future Teachers and

The Estherville Chapter of the Future Teachers of America was organized with the purpose of investigating the teaching profession and also to enjoy working with fellow students.

Some of the activities of the F.T.A. included the state convention attended by Don Lown, Rochelle Borchers, Bill Carlson, Diane Reeves, and Bruce Swinburne, a cooperative effort with the I.S.E.A. to sponsor a hootenanny and a panel discussion on the topics of education and possibilities in the field of teaching.

The officers heading the organization which has grown from 32 to 70 members within the last year, are president, Linda Olson; vice-president, Marlyn Theesfield; secretary, Rochelle Borchers; Treasurer, Don Lown; and historian, Mary Koenecke. This year the Scandinavian countries were represented with everyone dressed in bright ski sweaters and slacks ready to eat the delicious Scandinavian dishes.

One of the meetings featured a panel of boys and girls who discussed problems facing American teenagers today.

Selling fire extinguishers proved to be a profitable, as well as interesting, project for all FHA girls. This project paid the expenses for nine senior FHA girls to attend Veisha.

Excell Through Articulate Speech

The Estherville Troupe 1841 of the National Thespian Society has successfully fulfilled its purpose to further dramatic arts in the secondary education during 1964-65. The highlight was the Children's Theatre which presented "Snow White." Other plays which involved Thespian members were the senior one acts, the junior class play, and the contest play. Various individual speech events also helped to concentrate this select group's talent.

The year closed with the annual presentation of the Best Actor and Best Actress Awards. These honors were bestowed upon Mary Jean Vaubel, Richard Timmins, and James Hackett who were chosen by the Thespian members. The requirements of the recipients are to have participated in dramatics and to be a member of the student body of Estherville High School. Most important, however, is to uphold the Society's motto, "Act well your part; there all the honor lies."

Y-Teens Have a Busy, Fun-Filled Year

This year for the Estherville Y-Teens has been very busy and productive. Since the Y-Teens is a service group, they sponsored a foster daughter in Hong Kong, a scholarship to the Estherville Junior College, worked in the Holy Family coffee shop, sent three girls to Pella, Iowa, for summer conference, helped the Red Cross, and served at the Athletic Banquet. The girls have also entertained their grandmothers fathers, and mothers. The largest project of the Y-Teens is the annual Y-Teen Carnival. Taking into consideration the activities, this year of Y-Teens' work has been very rewarding.

The Y-Teen Carnival is always a prize winning success.

Varsity Chorus Members Exult in Song

The Varsity Mixed Chorus again proved its quality at the State Music Contest. Out of twenty-eight Division I ratings, singers from the Estherville chorus received twenty. Nine of these superior ratings were earned by soloists.

Many of the contest singers also sang in the selective All-State Chorus. Estherville placed four of five quartets that auditioned in the selective chorus. As a whole group, the Chorus performed many times. At their winter concert, the spotlight was on dramatic Christmas readings read between choral numbers. Another highlight of the evening was the singing of the Gloria from Haydn's Mass. This was followed by the singing of the Alleluia Chorus by present and alumnae members of Varsity Chorus.

The year was ended by recording a record featuring the group's favorite selections.

Toots, Frills, Clangs, and Om-pah-pahs

Under the competent baton of Mr. Ben Haigh, the high school marching and concert band again showed marked improvement. The band grew in size as well as ability this past year. This improvement was visible at the state music contest.

The marching band led by Jan Sanders marched its way successfully through Fairmont's King Korn Days, our annual Band Festival, and many football games.

Twenty-three small groups were entered in the state music contest. The band returned from this contest rightly proud of its members and the medals they won. Many of these groups were featured in the spring concert.

Pep Band Enlivens Spirits

Performing at 22 home basketball games and traveling to three away football games, the Estherville High School Pep Band spent a busy year adding enthusiastic "ingredients" to the school spirit "formula."

Under the supervision of Mr. Ben Haigh, high school band director, student directors Jim Hackett, Carolyn Jensen, and Debby Huntsinger led the band at all pep rallies.

The members were chosen according to ability from the horn, woodwind, and percussion sections of the high school marching band.

Sports royalty, Cindy Krier and Daryl Nelson, were the main attraction of the Christmas Dance.

The G.R.A. Queen, Cindy Krier, and her court, Barbara Thompson, Judy Hall, Janice Bahr, and Patsy Boies display royalty with poise.

GRA Sponsors Christmas Dance

As the number of Christmas shopping days grew short, the members of the GRA busily prepared for their annual Snowball Dance.

The main attraction of the 1964-65 dance was the crowning of a sport's king and queen.

Five GRA and five E-Club members were chosen as candidates. The reigning king and queen, Daryl Nelson and Cindy Krier, took their thrones and her majesty was presented with a dozen red roses.

Candlelit tables surrounded the cafeteria arrayed with blue and white streamers. A lovely flocked tree stood in the center of the floor.

The dance received such acclaims as, "neat," "pretty," "the best one we've ever had," and proved to be another successful event of the 1964-65 school year.

Athletics play an important part in G.R.A. members' lives.

Juniors "roar for victory."

It's Homecoming!

"Fight, Midgets, Fight" could be heard the weekend of the EHS 1964 Homecoming events, including a pep rally, bonfire, parade, and the football game.

The pep rally began with enthusiastic yells led by the cheerleaders. The sophomore skit was highlighted by the Midgets as they "creamed" the E-Hawks with cream pies. The senior skit was a unique twist to the fairy tale, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." The climax to the pep rally was the crowning of the Homecoming Queen, Marcia White.

The parade followed the next afternoon. It included the class floats; senior, "We'll drive them Loco, that's our motive"; junior, "Roaring for victory"; sophomores, "Blast the E-Hawks"; the homecoming royalty; and the football team preceding the junior high and senior high bands.

Life Through Junior and Senior EHS Actors

Moreau, Jim Hackett, Carolyn Jensen, Nancy Smith, or David Rust.

"A Mirror is a good device" thinks Jenny (Debby Hunt-singer) "to view the other fellows' (Jim Rosendahl) reactions.

The juniors this year presented the play, "Jenny Kissed Me." It was a tender, warm-hearted comedy of a charming young girl who went to live in the household of an elderly priest. The plot was concerned with the priest's clumsy endeavors to make Jenny attractive to boys.

Seniors broke tradition this year by presenting three one-act plays instead of only one play. Once again they were presented in the round with two night performances. The first presented, "The Importance of Being Earnest," which was also the contest play, was a satire on etiquette. A comic-drama would describe "The Lesson" which told of an old professor's attempt to tutor his young pupil. The third play, "The Bald Soprano," was a very unusual play and a satire on conversation.

Only the seniors know the "Importance of Being Earnest" . . . right Nancy Smith, Gary Moreau, Carolyn Jensen, Jim Hackett, Rick Timmins, Mary Jean Vaubel, and Judy Hall?

Thirty I ratings and six II ratings were won by Estherville speech students at the Iowa State Speech Association Contest. These 36 entries had previously received I ratings at the District Speech Contest held in Estherville in February.

The contestants were coached by Ed Purdy and Rod Wilson.

Talents Are Displayed in Contest Speech Children's Theatre

Children's Theatre, produced and directed entirely by the Thespian Troupe, presented "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" to over five hundred elementary students this year. Directed by Rick Timmins and Mary Jean Vaubel, the principals of the cast included Sue Gibson, Judy Hall, Carolyn Jensen, Gary Moreau, Rochelle Borchers, Jim Rogness and Jim Hackett.

For the winter concert the Estherville High School band featured Bill Page, a member of Lawrence Welk's familiar band.

Director, Ben Haigh calms nerves before the grand performance.

As the curtain opened for the winter concert, bubbles floated toward the ceiling and the band played the familiar Lawrence Welk champagne music. The cause of all this was the guest musician, Bill Page.

Bill Page is an accomplished performer who plays every woodwind instrument from the piccolo to the bassoon. He entertained the audience by playing a clarinet solo, several numbers using all the instruments and by playing two clarinets at once, and ending the concert by directing the full band.

Crowds Throng to Y-Teen Carnival

Queen Nancy Smith and her escort Rick Timmins appear to be dreaming.

The largest money-making project for the Estherville Y-Teens is the annual Y-Teen Carnival which was held Saturday, March 13. The girls spent all day Saturday setting up the booths and decorating for the dance. Everyone is invited to the carnival to enjoy the talent show, featuring local high school talent, the booths, shave-the-balloon, roll'em board, kangaroo kourt, fortune telling, make-up, fish pond, paint spinning, spook house, cake walks, basketball throw, hat booth, and the white elephant booth. The floor show, with the crowing of the Y-Teen queen, is a main attraction of the dance which is held after the carnival.

To the theme of "Three Coins in a Fountain" Nancy Smith was crowned queen while the other royalty applauded. The court was composed of Jan Sanders, Liz LeMaster, Connie Sunde, queen Nancy and Marcia Myers.

My Fair Lady

Victory at last! The rain in Spain DOES stay mainly on the plain--even in Herteford, Heresford, and Hampshire!

"Just you wait 'enry 'iggins; Oh, just you wait!"

After many weeks of hard work and sacrifice, along with a postponement of six months, an estimated 2700 people saw the combined efforts of the high school and junior college in the musical, "My Fair Lady." This year it was given on four occasions, one matinee and three night performances. Every presentation was warmly received, and the whole show was widely acclaimed and given much praise.

"My Fair Lady," adapted from George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion" is the most difficult musical ever attempted by the Estherville students and, according to all who saw it, probably the best.

The show was a complete success under the direction of Rod Wilson, drama; Ken Vandersloot, music; and Bonnie Yohe, Choreography, and Bob Lee, organist.

"With a Little Bit of Luck, you won't get caught" . . . in such a position, that is!

"Wouldn't It be Lovely" to be the center of attraction Eliza Doolittle (Mary Jean Vaubel) has become?

All eyes search the track for their favorite horse, but only one is bold enough to scream out, "Come on, Dover, move your bloomin . . . "

A mother's concern for her reputation and a friend's desire for success call for dashing looks as Mrs. Higgins (Carolyn Jensen) and Colonel Pickering (Rick Timmins) defend their own interests.

"Ya-oo-oo-ou Did It !"

Nothing was more perfect than the royal array of gowns expressing the feelings of the entire cast . . . "What a BALL!"

"Eliza, where in the devil are my slippers?" asks Henry Higgins (Jim Hackett).

"My Fair Lady" is the story of Henry Higgins attempts, with the aid of Colonel Pickering, to change a Cockney slum girl, Eliza Doolittle, into a well-refined lady fit to be presented into high society. With the aid of very effective and stunning scenery, the principals, chorus members, and dancers did a fine job in presenting this delightful show.

Characters ranged from high society to those from the London tenement section; some songs were boisterous like "Just You Wait," yet others were beautiful and sentimental like "I've Grown Accustomed to Her Face"; the dancing varied from a Cockney street jig to the elegant ballroom scene. All those who participated in any way have something to be proud of, for every aspect of the musical was delightful and very entertaining.

One hundred and seventy-four seniors proudly represented the high school class of 1965. The largest graduating class in number marked the seventy-fifth anniversary of Estherville High School.

Marilyn Theesfeld was the class valedictorian and Mary Jean Vaubel was the class salutatorian.

The class also boasted a first in graduation traditions. They were the first class to honor all graduating seniors with a grade point of 3.5 or over at commencement exercises.

Anxiety mounts as the seniors discuss matters of vital importance.

"Under the Magnolia Trees" was the theme for the junior-senior prom of 1965. Corresponding with a southern background, the decorations included a surrey, balconies, and a large picture of a southern plantation.

Despite the rain and threatening weather, the prom was a great success. The banquet was held in the high school gym preceding the dance at the Roosevelt gym.

Following the prom was post prom which included various activities sponsored by the parents. Bowling, tennis, dancing, and a breakfast were offered as a means of entertainment.

ATHLETICS

The officers of the lettermen's club began organizing and planning means of making the school year a successful one.

The first of their numerous activities was participating in two coronations. The annual Homecoming event and the G.R.A. Snowball Dance for which they furnished king candidates.

Having taken part in all traditional activities, the E-Club members also created two new annual events. The first of these was the white letter sweaters and the second was the E-Club and G.R.A. Faculty Basketball game.

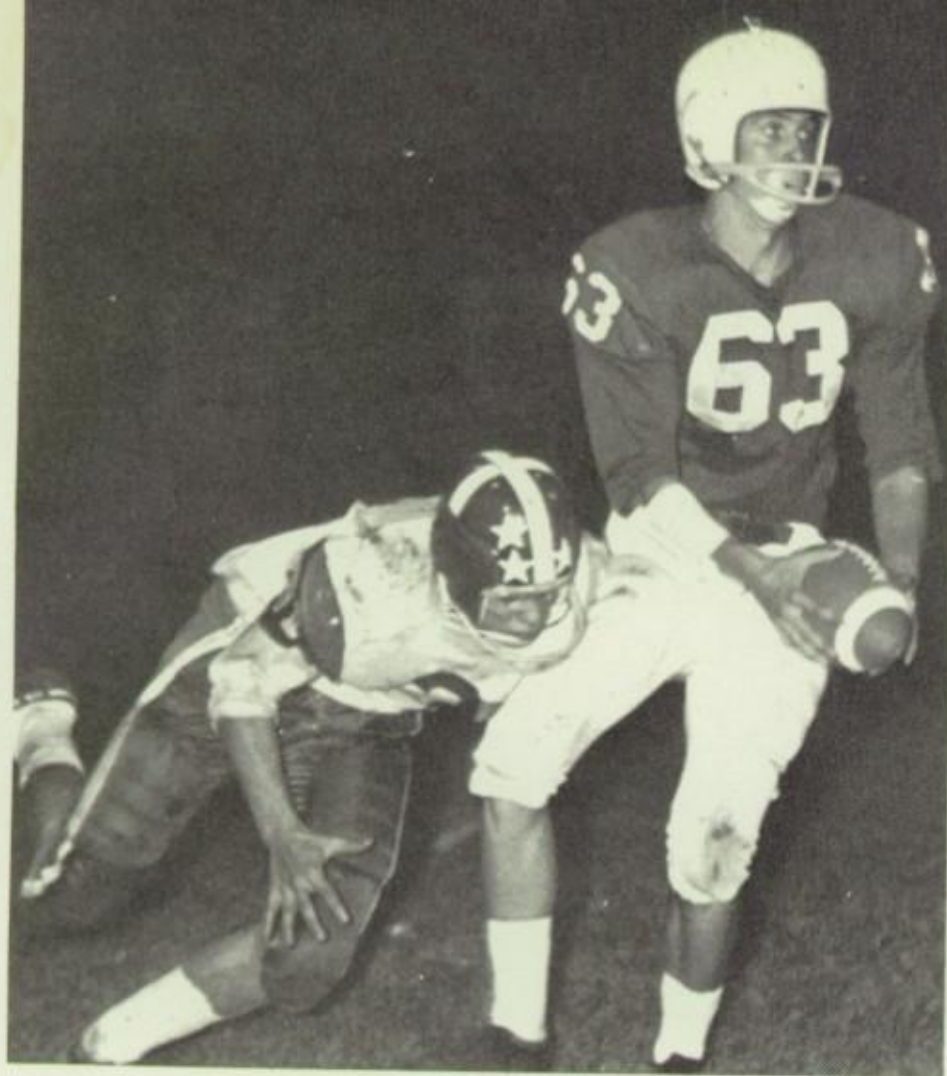

The senior members took the annual trip to the Drake Relays, ending their career as members of the lettermen's club and ending the successful year 1964-65.

This year's handsome officers are: Daryl Nelson, Pres.; Steve Olson, Vice Pres.; and Greg Montgomery, Secretary.

The 1964-65 Midget football squad finished the season with four wins, three losses, and one tie. Of all these, the two best games were the tie-game with Cherokee, who was second in the conference, and the victory at the Spirit Lake Homecoming. Estherville's Homecoming, however, was lost to Sheldon with a final score of 7-6.

Daryl Nelson and Bill Sanderson, two senior members of the squad, were awarded positions on the All-Conference team. Daryl, who merited numerous other honors, made both the offensive and defensive teams, and Bill, the defensive one. Four other members, Gary Moreau, Jim Matre, Roger Guge, and Ken Christiansen, received honorable mention. Unfortunately, the squad was hindered by two key injuries this year.

a 8—11 Record for Season

Midget cage mentor George Hess, glancing back over the concluded season, remarked that his team's record is "commendable," considering the fact that these boys when sophomores won five and lost nine to conference teams.

The season was marked by extreme differences in performance from one game to the next. This is typical of any team which suffers from a lack of experience. The Midgets were no exception, having but one letterman on the squad.

According to the coach, the most amazing thing about the Midgets was the fine games turned in the last of the season against the tougher opponents.

This shows a marked desire to make up for their deficiencies by working hard to overcome their opponents' style of play.

Much hard work was put in, and it paid off with victories over Storm Lake, Sheldon, and Lake Park, all noted for the tough zones they played all year.

As a boy enters into athletics, he is looking for competition and a means of strengthening himself both physically and mentally. Wrestling is a sport which combines both of these. Unlike a team sport, wrestling is an individual sport in which each participant must accomplish his feats for himself.

Other opponents for the year were Clarion, Pipestone, Fort Dodge, Jackson, LaVerne, Truman, West Sioux, Britt, and Algona. The team also traveled to two tournaments at Eagle Grove and at Belmond.

Although the season got off to a bad start, it ended in success as Blaine Schenck, Dave Dalen, and Barry Lee progressed to State.

The following boys have participated in the varsity meets for the 1965 golf season: Daryl Nelson, Greg Montgomery, Tom Moklestad, Tom Theophilus, Steve Sunde, Steve Matre, Roger Ledebuhr, Nelson Lee.

Daryl Nelson and Tom Moklestad lead the squad in the lowest stroke averages for the meets. The golf squad completed a regular season remaining undefeated in four duals and two triangular meets. Estherville placed second in the Lakes Conference meet. The golf team succeeded in tying the school record of 153 strokes per round in the triangular at Okoboji golf course.

The Estherville "B" squad defeated Spencer and lost to Algona reserves in their only actions for the golf season.

The squad was hampered all season by the late spring and the poor recovery of the local golf course greens.

The game is complete and the expressions are varied; right Tom?

Rah! Yea, Midgets—

The most loyal fans of the many athletic teams are the cheerleaders. Their exuberant voices can be heard leading the cheering section at every football and basketball game and every wrestling meet through out the school year.

The Estherville cheerleaders sponsored a cheer-leading clinic this fall for all conference cheerleaders, which was a great success. It not only united the cheerleaders more strongly, but also taught all of them new cheers. It is hoped that this clinic will become an annual event in the future.
